July 2015

Representatives from Running Forward had the opportunity to meet with a delegation of international visitors studying Leadership Development Through Scouting and Sports. John Asher (Founder/CEO), Nikki Leonard (former Program Director), Tate Matthews (Program Director), and Kortnie Walker (Program Director) discussed their successes and learning experiences regarding working with lower income elementary school children, and Running Forward's primary objectives: instilling goal setting habits and advancement toward higher education.

About:

The Utah Council for Citizen Diplomacy (UCCD) is an independent, nonpartisan, nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to promoting global understanding and respect between the people of Utah and other nations. Since 1967, UCCD has been Utah’s leader in international professional and cultural exchange, and works as a private sector partner with the U.S. Department of State’s International Visitor Leadership Program. Each year, UCCD welcomes nearly 500 emerging leaders from around the world to Utah for short-term professional and cultural exchanges. UCCD is a member of Global Ties U.S. and the Utah chapter of the World Affairs Councils of America (WACA). More information is available at www.utahdiplomacy.org.

Our Mission:

To promote respect and understanding between the people of Utah and other nations.

Our Guiding Principle:

Citizen Diplomacy is the concept that the individual has the right, even the responsibility, to help shape U.S. foreign relations, “one handshake at a time.”
